

Abstract

The present invention relates to improved dental compositions and methods for bleaching teeth. More specifically, this invention is directed towards hydrogen peroxide-containing compounds that are maintained at a substantially constant pH 5 range of 6.0-10.0 during the tooth-bleaching procedure in the presence of a calcium chelating agent.

94861

RECEIVED
MAY 17 2002